A Message from the Premier

As Premier of the Province of British Columbia, I am very pleased to welcome everyone to the Applied Science Technologists & Technicians of BC's Annual General Meeting & Professional Development Day in Burnaby, BC.

I understand that the theme for this year's meeting is FOCUS 2015: Practice & Accountability and this year's keynote speaker is Cheryl Cran. The work you and your colleagues do as professionals who work in the applied science technology fields is so important. Our government has made skills training and post-secondary education a priority. We feel that professional, scientific and technical services will likely be among the fastest-growing and most in-demand areas in years to come.

I would like to commend the organizers for their hard work and dedication to ensuring this year's meeting is rewarding to all those in attendance.

Please accept my best wishes for a most successful and informative event and I wish you luck in all your future endeavors.

Sincerely,
