

ASTTBC Connects with the Association of Consulting Engineering Companies Canada

Four CEOs meet to talk about consulting engineering in Canada. Pictured (l to r): John Leech, ASTTBC; David Thomson, OACETT; Barry Cavanaugh, ASET; and, John Gamble, ACEC Canada.

The CEOs for the BC, Alberta and Ontario technology professionals associations met in Ottawa last year with John Gamble, CET, PEng, the CEO for ACEC Canada. The discussion ranged from career prospects in engineering consulting, women in engineering, and profile of technology education & careers to technology professionals' practice.

“We are making an effort to meet annually with ACEC Canada to ensure solid linkages with a key group of employers. This is in addition to the excellent working relationship ASTTBC has with ACEC-BC,” said ASTTBC CEO John Leech. “We enjoyed our conversation with John, who as both a technologist and engineer understands the benefits of professional registration and recognition.”