ASTTBC congratulates and was pleased to attend the grand opening of Collins Training Facility in Maple Ridge, BC on September 10th, 2015. Collins Safety hosted a full reception at their new facility, followed by an informative presentation by Terry Duncan, Lead OH&S Instructor and Jennifer Scott, First Aid Instructor.

"The growth and recognition of the ASTTBC Construction Safety Officer Certification program is proof that the credible and high quality training providers accredited by ASTTBC, continue to encourage an ever increasing level of professionalism within the construction safety community." States ASTTBC's Bruce J. Stevens, ASCT, Manager Construction Safety Registration, "Joe Collins, RCSO and President of Collins Safety Training, is a staunch advocate for the ASTTBC certification of construction safety practitioners and is providing strong leadership through the establishment of this independent training facility. We wish Collins Safety good luck with their new enterprise".

"I would like to thank all those who came out to learn more about our Occupational Health and Safety services and support us with our New OH&S Training Centre's Grand Opening." says Joe Collins, RCSO, President of Collins Safety Training "It was an extreme pleasure to see old friends and meet new people who share our passion for safety. I only hope we managed to make everyone feel welcome and truly look forward to having the privilege of working with all of you in the future."
