

April 2012

Leech Meets Bowman in Prince George

John Bowman, President of the College of New Caledonia, spent time with ASTTBC's John Leech talking technology education in northern BC during John's recent trip up North.

The 'two Johns' have been working collaboratively to address the skills shortage issue in Prince George and northern BC for several years. One outcome is proposals by CNC for new engineering technology programs at CNC, in collaboration with Northwest Community College and Northern Lights College.

"John Bowman is a real champion for technology education. He has connected with industry leaders who say they strongly support technology programs at the college, said Leech. "ASTTBC continues to support and promote technology education in northern BC."