Geotechnical Lab Technician – Vancouver

GeoPacific Consultants Ltd. is a geotechnical engineering firm located in Vancouver, BC. Incorporated in December of 1985, we have completed over 14,000 projects in the Metro Vancouver area. Our aim is to provide a range of specialized geotechnical engineering solutions delivered on time and on budget. We are committed to quality, responsive and innovative service, appropriate to the varied requirements of our clients. We are currently seeking an engineering technologist or technician for a full time position as a Geotechnical Lab Technician.

The job will entail laboratory, office, and field work consisting of construction inspections, in-situ testing, laboratory tests, data management, and writing and editing technical reports. Laboratory and field work will be focused on soil, aggregate and asphalt testing. The employee will be expected to complete their work accurately and efficiently while maintaining a busy schedule. The successful candidate will have completed a Civil Engineering Diploma of Technology or equivalent and have 1 to 3 years of experience in the construction materials testing or engineering field. In addition, they will possess excellent communication skills (both written and verbal). They will be skilled with Microsoft Office and AutoCAD, and should have a familiarity with soil classification, soil indexing tests, and compaction testing. The successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to work efficiently and on deadline in both individual and team settings. They will show adaptability and versatility as an employee, as well as good troubleshooting skills. Applicants are required to have a valid Canadian driver's license and own their own vehicle.

In addition, the successful candidate will demonstrate a self-motivated drive to complete their work to the highest standards. GeoPacific is looking for an energetic, hard-working individual that is excited to work with our company. We take pride in providing high quality work and service to our clients and expect the same from our employees.

If you are interested in this position, please send your cover letter and resume to careers@geopacific.ca with "Lab Technician" in the subject line. Only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted.
