Technology Professionals Canada Diversity Statement

“The member associations of Technology Professionals Canada adhere to the principles of equality and inclusion, and celebrate diversity in their membership, in their volunteer practices, and in employment and human resource practices.”

In a global economy, ASTTBC and TPC members must reflect the diversity among us, in order to represent our stakeholders and the public we serve.

Diversity may be defined in many ways, including but not limited to individual characteristics such as age, color, culture, ethnicity, gender, gender identity, race, national origin, physical ability, political beliefs, religion/spirituality, sexual orientation, marital status/partnership, language preference, socio-economic status, professional choices and other facets of social diversity.
